RCMP Warning Public of SIN Scam

January 25, 2020 07:10 am

The RCMP is warning about another scam making the rounds; this one involving social insurance numbers.

The caller advises that your social insurance card has been compromised and requests information such as date of birth, postal code and social insurance number.

The caller, claiming to be with the Canada Revenue Agency or Service Canada may threaten arrests or court action if they do not get the information requested.

RCMP warn never to provide personal information to anyone who calls you unexpectedly.

If these scammers call, hang up and contact the Canadian Anti-Fraud Centre at 1-888-495-8501.
